New Handbags in Odd Shapes and Styles-Troubadour Bag One of Latest-Silk and Leather Combined-Uses for Turpentine-Recipe for Argyle Salad.

WHAT ARE THE NEW HANDBAGS

Anyone with an addiction to things old-fashioned must be delighted with handbags, for it the prospect in seems as if two-thirds of the new ones have gate tops. This gate top, which was revived when slik handbags came into style, is now used on tard, one teaspoonful butter, ly. Sometimes the little gate top is circular, sometimes it is oval in shape. It is made of silver and gold, brass and nickel, and sometimes it is studded with real or imitation stones.

An odd new bag is made of soft leather, with a silver gate top, and a little ruffle hanging over it of silver It is quite suggestive, somehow, of the knight errant's helmet and protector of chain mail that fell over his shoulders.

There is a new bag that is very small. It is made of leather, drawn into a tiny rosette at the bottom and fitted with a little strap just big enough to slip over one finger.

Flowered silks are still used for linings of handbags, and so are black and white stripes and the gay silks vaguely termed futurist.

One of the new bags is called the troubadour bag. It is a long, purse-like bag, of slik, sometimes plain or moire, sometimes flowered, and the strap that forms the handle is cut in one with the bag. There is a shirred band of slik that is slipped over the strap handle and when this is pushed firmly down it acts as a fastening to hold the bag shut.

Silk bags embroidered with steel, with metal gate tops, are exceedingly smart. Sometimes the steel beads are embroidered in a flowered design, sometimes in a conventional band.

Some of the prettiest of the new bags are made of silk and leather combined. One that is very attraccombined. One that is very attractive is made of black and white striped silk, in wide stripes, with a little section of tan suede clasped about the silk. Sometimes the bags are made of leather at the bottom and silk at the top—suggestive of the frocks with skirts made up of two strips of fabric, one serge, the other silk.

When the enameled sink is black and greasy just apply a little turpentine with a rag and allow it to remain a short time, then wash it off main a short time, then wash it off SHIP TORPEDOED grease will disappear like magic in far less time and with less rubbing than if it had been subjected to scouring process with some patent cleanser. A small bottle of the liquid kept in the bathroom is a great con-venience, as all enameled surfaces there may be kept immaculate with very litle work. Stove polish mixed with turpentine and rubbed on when the range is cool will produce a brighter luster than if mixed with any other liquid. Remember, however, that it is very combustible and do not mix it near a fire. Remove dust and grease from nickel parts of stove by rubbing with a flannel rag dipped in turpentine. Turpentine and lard if applied to the chest and back on hot flannel cloths is an invaluable remedy for deep-seated colds on the lungs. The ard alone, of course, is heated and the turpentine is added to it before the hot cloths are saturated in the Paris, Sept. 11, 2:08 a. m .- The British steamer Alexandra, owned by the Cunard Steamship company, was torpedoed Thursday, seventy miles from Cape Palos, near Murcia, Spain, according to the Madrid correspondent of the Havas agency. Twenty-eight of the crew have been landed at Mazarron, Spain.

Maritime records give several steamers under the name of Alexan-dra. The steamer mentioned in the bove dispatch is probably the British steamer Alexandra, which sailed from Tyne July 27 for Barcelona, where she arrived August 5. The Alexandra was of 3865 tons gross and was 346 feet long. She was built in England, in 1905. Although the steamer is listed as being owned by the Taylor & Sanderson Steamship com-pany of Sunderland, it is possible that she was chartered by the Cunard line.

courses of study to the list of pre-scribed courses established at the Ogden high schol by order of the board of education at the opening of the present school year, is to be considared by the school directors at a special meeting next Monday night. The matter was brought before the board last night at its regular weekly meeting by a committee from the high school faculty, composed of Principal J. E. Beeson, George Bruerton, Anna Cassat, Carrie V. Knapp, Mrs. R. S. Farnsworth and Jennette Stephens.

Their contention was that the pre scribed courses as now outlined were too rigid and that considerable trouble had been met with during the week in getting the students to accept them. "As the courses stand ow," one member of the committee stated, "they are for those pupils who desire to prepare for entrance to uni-versities. Only about five per cent of the pupils entering the high schol ever go to the higher institutions of learning and the courses now prescribed are not adapted to the needs of the great majority'

Principal Beeson acted as spokesman for the teachers and, after he had briefly stated the object of their appearance at the meeting, each one was given an opportunity to tell why the present courses had not worked out in the departments and to give views as to how the matter could be remedied. The five supplementary courses were then introduced as fol-

Mr. Bruerton stated that the pro-posed agricultural course was iden-tical with the one given at the state Agricultural college. Bookkeeping and typewriting were necessary, he said, and should be elective as agri-culturists and mechanics wanted a knowledge of the subjects so that they would not find it necessary to hire outside parties to handle that part of their business. He also ex-pressed the opinion that the boys and girls should be segregated in the industrial course.

A plea for the revising of the Eng-lish course to include English compo-sition was made by Mrs. Farnsworth. The English course, she stated, had never had a fair chance at the high school, as the pupils had been given only the oral part of the subject, the real foundation work being omitted.

Miss Stephens said that only a few students had thus far applied for work in physical education, for the reason, she thought, that the course carried no credits with it. Many more wanted it but they could not afford to give the time to the study f they could not secure credits for their work. Speaking further, Miss Stephens explained the need and advantages of physical education and asked that some inducement be given the students to choose the study. The objections made to it, she believed, were not sufficient to have it eliminated from the school curriculum.

Similar talks with regard to the resent and proposed supplementary courses of study ase affecting their departments were made by Miss Cassatt and Miss Krapp. After a brief discussion of the question, on motion H. H. Henderson, board decided to meet on Monday night as a committee of the whole to horoughly discuss and pass upon it. Mrs. J. T. Lynch and Mrs. D. J.

Sheehan, representing the Child Culture club, were also given a hearing by the board. Mrs. Lynch outlined the plan the club had adopted to secure a part of the money to build a swimming pool for the children of the city which, she said, was to cost approximately $7800. She then invited the board members to occupy a box at the performance of "Cousin Kate" next Wednesday night at the Orpheum to help out the cause. On mo-tion of Mr. Henderson the board memfor the show

Supt. J. M. Mills reported that about 75 students now attending the Madison school lived in the Lorin Farr school district. This has caused an over-crowded condition at the Madison and relief was asked for. The matter was referred to the teachers' committee with power to act.

Mr. Bruerton reported that the clock system at the high school was Morrison will enter school at Berke now working according to schedule for the first time since it was installed several years ago. Bills to the amount of $53.75 to repair work at the high school and others to the amount of $490, mainly for supplies, were ordered paid.
